Interested in becoming a University of California Cooperative Extension (UCCE) Stanislaus County Master Gardener Volunteer?

Apply now for the January 2022 training program.
Submit your application by August 31, 2021

Our program volunteers help make the community a better place by encouraging healthy environments with sustainable gardening, green waste reduction, and water conservation.

Training classes are taught by University of California experts on topics such as:

- Horticulture and plant identification
- Soils
- Composting
- Vegetable gardening
- Less-toxic pest management
- Water-wise plants

If you love gardening and giving back to your community, read more about this unique volunteer opportunity at <http://ucanr.edu/2021/apply/mg>
